Child Parent Relationship Therapy, A Play Therapy Model

Erin Dugan, Ph.D., LPC-S, Registered Play Therapist

Overview

Child-Parent Relationship Therapy, a play therapy model, is a play-based treatment program for young children presenting with behavioral, emotional, social, and attachment concerns. This webinar will present the goals, objectives, and techniques used in CPRT as well as the tenets of CPRT which focus on the overall goal to strengthen the quality of the parent-child attachment bond.

Objectives:

1. Participants will review the Child Parent Relationship Therapy model (CPRT), a play therapy model.
2. Participants will review the overall goal, enhancement of the child parent relationship, of CPRT.
3. Participants will discuss the goals, objectives, and techniques of CPRT.
