Overview

Developed in the 1960s by Bernard and Louise Gurney, Filial Therapy, a play therapy model, is a closely related form of child-centered play therapy that involves the parents or caregivers directly as the agents of therapeutic change. This webinar will present an overview of Filial Therapy and its goals, objectives, and techniques used to strengthen the child parent relationship.

Objectives:

1. Participants will discuss the use of Filial Therapy, a play therapy model.
2. Participants will review the goals, objectives, and goals of Filial Therapy.
3. Participants will discuss the use of Filial Therapy with children and parents to strengthen their relationship.
